

NPL Site Narrative for Hedblum Industries

HEDBLUM INDUSTRIES

Oscoda, Michigan

Conditions at listing (December 1982): The Hedblum Industries Site is located in Oscoda, Iosco County, Michigan. The company produced stamped metal parts for the automotive industry. From 1968 until 1972, Hedblum dumped an estimated 4,000 gallons of trichloroethylene (TCE), which was used to degrease the parts, directly onto the ground. TCE contamination was detected in 13 residential wells nearby. A municipal line was extended to supply the affected area.

Status (July 1983): Conditions at this site are currently being addressed through a State or Federal enforcement action against parties responsible for wastes at the site.
